December 3, 2007 – SIAS Wascana Campus recognized the academic achievements of its students during an awards ceremony this afternoon. Sixty-one awards were handed out to students, with a total value of $149,283.

“Donor contributions are important for ensuring that SIAS can continuously provide quality education and services,” says SIAS president and CEO Dr. Bob McCulloch. “I applaud all of the award recipients for their achievement, and I extend heartfelt thanks to each of the donors who makes these awards possible.”

Today’s ceremony recognized SIAS Wascana’s top students, including 31 first-year Centennial Merit Scholarship recipients. Through the Centennial Merit Scholarship program, Saskatchewan Advanced Education, Employment and Labour matches donations from SIAS employees, individual donors, companies and other organizations to create scholarships equal to core tuition fees. The scholarships are awarded to Saskatchewan high school graduates who meet high academic criteria.
